WILL YOTE FOR CRISP

VOL. XXIII.

The News Becomes More and More Encouraging.

THE FRIENDS OF JUDGE HATCH

Will Vote for Crisp as Their Second Choice.

THE MUGWUMP HEELERS ASSEMBLE

To Inject Into the Campaign a Tinge of Presidential Politics—The Latest Probabilities.

WASHINGTON, December 4 .- [Special.]-Uncork your champagne, for tomorrow will see Crisp nominated for the speakership! And that, too, despite an opposition which will arouse indignation when its true inwardness is made known. A Rejected Appeal.

It developed today that each member of the South Carolina delegation had received a very urgent appeal yesterday from the editor of The News and Courier, of Charleston, asking the members as a special favor to that paper to vote for Mills for speaker. This paper has opposed Crisp all along, and was supposed to be for Springer. One of Springer's men remarked today that they had never felt its effect, and it is certain from what the congress men from South Carolina, who received the telegrams, say that Mills will say the same thing after the election.

Crisp has received the personal assurance of every congressmen from that state, except one, that they will support him to the end. Where the Suggestion Came From.

This movement is counted here as another movement on the part of the Cleveland and Carlisle ticket to help Mills. Senator Vilas, of Wisconsin, and Senator Carlisle, of Kentucky, are working all the time for Mills, and a delegation of Cleveland's personal friends from the state of New York are at Willard's putting in the best that is in them for Mills.

The first ballot will show Crisp off in the lead forty votes more than any other candidate; Springer next, Mills. McMillin and Hatch following in the order named, with all in the field. Mills will not get over forty-four votes. His friends will not make any figure except between Crisp and Mills, with all the other candidates out and the figures given as his vote is counted by the other candidates.

Mills May Retire.

Mills has been unfortunate in the management of this campaign, and it is rumored around the Metropolitan tonight that just before the ballots appear tomorrow, he will withdraw from the race, and do all he can to smash Crisp. His friends deny the report, but do not be surprised at this turn. If he does, Crisp will be elected on the first ballot. The truth is, no combination that is attempted will defeat Crisp. He is so close to the requisite number that the withdrawal of any other canacted very conservatively, and there is no doubt to Crisp. Besides this his friends from the start have been so firm and outspoken that it was not a difficult matter to find out just how he has been in the lead all the time. Added to this Judge Crisp has been so clever and agreeable that everybody that comes in contact with him goes away with a good impression.

One Recruit for Mills. The practical effect of all this pulling and hauling has been almost imperceptible. About the only significant victory the Mills men have won today was in Ohio, where Judge Hare and Representative Dungan pronounced for Mills. ator Palmer, of Illinois, is assisting Springer; Senator Vest is performing a like office for Mr. Hatch; Coke and Carlisle are with Mills, and Hatch; Coke and Carlisle are with Mills, and Kenna and Pugh with Crisp. One incident will show how the lines are drawn. Some of Mr. Mills's supporters have

How Kenna Had His Revenge. The phraseology of the term irritated Sena-tor Kenna, who at one time in the house was the young lieutenant of the great Pennsylva-nian. He went to the National hotel and secured the rooms in which Randall made his last canvass for speaker. There Mr. Kenna installed himself as an avowed Randall demcrat, not in the tariff sense but as a stalwart behalf. One result of his efforts was the con version of Capebart, of West Virginia, from Mills to Crisp.

How the Candidates Stand. In view of the fact that no combinations have been perfected and the general under standing that all five of the candidates are earnestly in the fight, it is a safe prediction nominate on the first ballot. Crisp holds the lead with about ninety-six of what his mana gers call "rock bottom" votes. Mills has about fifty, with Springer sure to beat him for second place. McMillin and Hatch have their sixteen and fourteen respectively, leaving in the neighborhood of twenty votes that have not as yet been accurately classified. Hurrah for Missouri.

The most satisfactory accomplishment of the Crisp managers today was getting nine members of the Missouri delegation to promise their votes for Crisp in the event that Hatch withdrew. As Hatch, McMillin and Springer are liable to retire simultaneously, this accession from Missouri, if obtained at the right stage of the caucus proceedings, will be a great help to the Georgian.

The probabilities tonight, as they have throughout the week, favor the nomination of Crisp. It is asserted with equal confidence at Mills's headquarters that he (Mills) would be nominated on the second or third ballot. This assertion was discounted somewhat by the strong tendency on the part of the Mills men to explain, not how they expected to win, but what would happen if they were beaten -namely, the prostration of the star-eyed g dess of tariff reform.

About the Caucus. It is not the intention to have speech making in the caucus. The interest in the contest is so great that the members would not have the patience to listen to any outbursts of oratory that could serve no purpose but to take up time. With the exception of the clerk the results of the nominations for the minor offices are more or less involved in the outcome of the speakership battle. Kerr has a walkover for the clerkship. Yoder, of Ohio, seems likely to be made sergeant-atarms; Turner, of New York, doorkeeper, and

J. C. Roy, of Wisconsin, postmaster. The Unpledged Members. Even at this late hour there are more than a score of members not absolutely pledged, and this margin of uncommitted votes fills a large share in the hopes and fears of the respective hour of the caucus, there will be five name presented to that body for the speakership.

Springer's Difficult Task. Mr. Springer has had the most difficult task of all in keeping his men together, but up to this time he has been successful. He has received pledges so direct and binding that any desertion from his ranks between now and to-morrow afternoon would simply be cold blooded treachery on the part of those who

Mr. McMillin is unmistakably for Mills, and Mi. McMillin is unmistakably for Mills, and would cheerfully abandon the contest now if it would help the Texan. However, one of his principal lieutenants, Mr. Richardson, holds a handful of Tennesseeans whom he can transfer to Crisp as soon as Mr. McMillin steps been freely using the expression that "Crisp out of the fight. Consequently it is an assistance to Mills to have McMillin in the field, for, otherwise, there is danger that Crisp will be nominated on the first ballot.

Mills Men Working Hard The Mills men have exerted every influence that they can command. Tremendous pres-sure has been brought to bear on members from outside sources, and in some cases the strain is terrific.

Using the Wires.

Messages were forwarded from the homes of members to whom they were addressed. It was evidently intended to effect a stampede for Mills. As no practical results have so far been visible, the telegraph companies appear to be the only gainers. Some of Mr. Mills's enthusiastic friends overdid their part of it. The Kentucky members received threatening messages stating that any Kentuckian who voted against Mills would be defeated for re-nomination next fall. These threatening messages were anonymous, but they have served the purpose of increasing the acrimony served the purpose of increasing the acrimony that now exists between the Mills and Crisp Mills's Latest Move. A new move was made this evening on the part of Mills. The Illinois contingent, in the shape of a petition, asked Springer to withdraw. This is the fourth attempt to turn over the bulk of the Illinois delegation to Mills, and is likely, as those before it, to fail.

Mr. Springer told a prominent Georgia exmember tonight that he had been treated with much courtesy and consideration by Judge Crisp and his supporters, and that he would always remember it to their credit.

Georgia Members Present.

All the Georgia members are here except Turner, who will be here tomorrow in time for the caucus, if his train is not late. Everett arrived this morning. Watson has been here for a day or two, but he has not come in contact with his colleagues, and no one contra-dicts the statement that he will keep out of

DEMANDED IDENTIFICATION.

A New Rule Which Caused a Little Trouble in Washington. WASHINGTON, December 4.-There was considerable excitement among the small army of pensioners in this city this morning. By a recent order of the secretary of the ment of pensions, through the agency in this city, has been deposited with the assistant United States treasurer in New York city, with a view to concentrating in the subtres ury at that city all pension funds. Hereto fore it had been the practice of the Washing ton agents to pay pensions by checks on the United States treasurer, but under the new rule checks are drawn on the assistant treasnrer at New York.

In anticipation of this change, the agent asked the Washington banks if they would be willing to cash these checks, and he understood them to assent, and so notified the pensioners, when they received their quarter's pension when they received their quarter's pension this morning.

When, however, a procession of 3,000 or more bearers began to invade the bank, it was learned that no checks would be paid unless the holders were duly identified. The agent regarded identification as complete when he endorsed a check with his initials. The banks, however, declined to accept this as sufficient identification and declined payment. Two private banks announced that they would pay all checks presented, but in a few hours, owing to the crowd, the obstruction to their business became so great that they declined to continue payment. leclined to continue payment

An Attempt on the Life of the Great Capitalist.

HIS MYSTERIOUS VISITOR YESTERDAY,

Who Demanded a Private Interview and is Ordered From the Office.

HE EXPLODES A DYNAMITE BOMB.

Four Lives Were Lost and Mr. Sage Painfully Injured-Remnants of Human Bodies Found in the Wreck.

New York, December 4.—At 12:15 o'clock this afternoon a poorly dressed man, carrying a brown satchel, entered the office of Russell Sage, at 71 and 73 Broadway, and demanded a private interview with Mr. Sage. W. R. Laidlaw, Mr. Sage's clerk, told him that Mr. Sage was busy and could not be seen. The man persisted and continued to talk in a loud tone. Mr. Sage was in an inner office and came out to see what was the matter. He asked the man what was wanted. The man

"I demand a private interview with you?" Mr. Sage replied that it would be impossible for him to see the man then, but he might possibly do so later in the day.

The man continued to demand a private interview then and there, and Mr. Sage ordered him to leave the office.

A Terrific Explosion.
On this the man dropped the leather bag and an explosion, which shook the entire block, instantly followed.

Mr. Sage was thrown across the room and Mr. Laidlaw, who had turned away and was standing within a few feet of the two, was also thrown across the office and had one

In Mr. Sage's office at the time of the explosion were Colonel J. J. Slocum, F. C. Osorn, C. W. Osborn, F. C. Menzies and B. F. Norton. Mr. Norton was badly injured and was taken in an ambulance to St. Vincent's hospital, where he died. Pieces of several bodies were picked up on the second floor of a building near the scene of the explosion and placed in a fire-department life-saving net.

Four Live Were Lost. Rumors are rife as to the number of person killed, but as far as can be learned only four

One of the pieces of the bodies picked up was a head with the face intact. It is that o a young man with brown hair growing thickly upon the head. As both Menzies and C. W. Osborn are missing, it is supposed they compose a portion of the mangled heaps.

Among the fragments of the bodies found was a leg which the police think was that of a woman. Sage's woman typewriter is supposed to be among the killed.

The injured people were at once removed to a drug store opposite and attended to. There it was found Sage's injuries are not serious but very extensive and painful. Mr. Sage was able to converse. He said the man with the handbag was a total stranger to him. He insisted upon presenting Mr. Sage with his card, but he declined to accept it.

Mr. Sage's Injuries. Mr. Sage was completely covered with grime and dust, and his clothing was blown into tat-ters, and his hands, face and clothing were covered with blood. Mr. Sage's injuries mainly consist of a cut and bruise upon the forehead, while his face and hands were filled with small cuts, as if he had received a volley of gravel stones from a shotgun. Both fire and ambulance calls were at once

Police Captain McLaughlin immediately took charge of the police arrangements and search for the dead and wounded was begun. The three rooms, No. 35 and the two adjoin ing, were totally wrecked. All that remained mimpaired in Mr. Sage's office was his desk s Lord. The safe in Mr. Sage's office was broken open and securities were scattered over the building and the streets. Presented His Card.

When the dynamiter entered Mr. Sage's office he handed the clerk a card which bore the name "H. D. Wilson." When the police examined the wrecked office there was found just inside of the door of the general office the trunk of a man in a state that rendered recognition. trunk of a man in a state that rendered recognition nearly impossible, the head having been severed from the body. The pointed reddish beard gave the appearance of an educated man, which was enhanced by brown curls of hair and a heavy mustache that adorned the upper lip. This is the only person killed outright, so far as known, and the body is supposed to be that of the dynamiter.

As the investigation proceeds it appears that Wilson had a companion when he entered the building and inquired for Sage's office, A Woman's Leg.

Late in the afternoon the firemen found nong the debris a leg which was thought to be that of a woman. If it is or not, has not been learned, but Russell Sage never did em-ploy a woman typewriter, and as this fact is well established, the supposition is that if the leg is that of a woman, it is all that is left of one of his "put and call" customers, who was in the office at the time. Died in the Hospital.

Benjamin F. Norton, who was blown through window, a clerk in the office of Sage, was removed to Chambers street hospital, where he died while under operation for fracture of the skull. He was a resident of Far Rockaway. The following injured were taken to the hospital:

Frank Robertson, twenty years old, living at Bergen Point, and employed as clerk fo Timbre & Co., brokers. He was in Sage's office at the time of the explosion. His skull was fractured, and he will probably die.
Charles W. Osborn, Russell Sage's cashier, 196 Bersley place, Brooklyn; fractured skull, will probably die.
Charles J. Calhoun, a clerk, of 165 Dean street, Brooklyn; lacerated wound of the head.
Mr. William R. Laidlaw, who was in the building at the time, received a fracture of the leg. He was taken to St. Vincent's. Colonel J. J. Slocum, a brother-in-law of Mr. Sage and his chief clerk, was badly cut about the head and when his wounds were dressed returned to the scene, declaring he had left the door of the safe open and was fearful that the securities in it had been blown out and lost.

Quickly gathering together what he found, he placed them in a small safe and had it removed to the office of the Manhattan Railroad Company, in the same building.

A Chattanooga Man's Experience Charles E. James, a railroad man and resident of Chattanooga, Tenn., had an appoint-ment with Mr. Sage at 12 o'clock, and had an experience that he will not soon forget. He

"I called at Mr. Sage's office at 12 o'clock and found him out. A seat was offered me in the main office near a desk. I took it and the main office near a desk. I took it and waited on a bench near the wall. I noticed a man, perhaps five feet eight inches in height. He wore a plug hat, and had a pointed beard and heavy brown mustache. At about 12:15 o'clock Mr. Sage came in, and, greeting me pleasantly, asked me into his private office. Mr. Sage had just removed his hat and asked me to be seated, when one of his clerks entered and said something to him that I did not hear. Turning to me he said, *Excuse me for a moment, and passed through the door into the main office. The door closed behind him, and, pushing my chair over to the wall, I sat facing the door through which he had gone. It might have been two or three minutes when the explosion came."

Blown to the Ceiling.

Blown to the Ceiling. "I was blown up nearly to the ceiling, and the chair on which I sat was smashed into pieces. I came down all in a heap. Dust and small particles of plaster and smoke filled the room. I was completely dazed and did not know what to do. I remember making my way through a door where the explosion had blown through a door where the explosion had blown the door from its hinges, into the main office. There I met Mr. Sage, blood trickling down his face and hands, his clothes torn and covered with dirt and dust. When he saw me he said: 'How shall we get out?' 'Wait,' I replied, 'until this dust settles, and I think we will be all right, as the worst must be over.' "Then I recovered my senses, and, taking him by the arm, led him down the stairway into the street."

Among the debris of the wrecked offices werefound the remains of a silk hat, evidently worn by the man who gave his name as Wilson, and in one corner of Mr. Sage's private office, where James was sitting alone at the time of the explosion, a man's hand.

The Coroner's Examination.

The coroner made an examination of the mangled remains of the man found in Mr. Sage's office and from the mass of flesh, and clothing took a seven-chamber buildog revolver. This was all that could be found by which an identification could be made. What was left by the explosion of the madman's body—at least it was labeled and accepted by the police and coroner—was laid out in Undertaker Duffy's office, at 82 Greenwich street. It was not much. The head was there, blackened, but not cut nor disfigured much in any way. It was cut off at the top of the neck, and looked for all the world like the mask of a man thirty-five or forty years old, with a full beard, that might have been long, but was now burned close to the skin and cheeks. Then there was a leg—the right—a left foot, one hand; and that was all. The Coroner's Examination.

The body proper was gone. Of neither chest nor abdomen was a trace found. The leg that was there was broken and twisted. Such shreds of clothing as were found showed that the man had were trousers of blue-black, a plaid black overcoat, and long black stockings that might have started the story that a woman's legs were found. Crowds came and went, looking at the face, but no one knew it. When darkness came the undertaker, tired of the sight, threw a cloth over it and shut his door.

Mr. Sage's Statement. Russell Sage made the following statement to Inspector Byrnes this afternoon: "I came out of my office, having been sent for. I found there a man with a satchel. He handed me a card bearing the name of H. D. Wilson. He said he came from John Rockefeller's and at the same time handed me a type-written letter in a sealed envelope. It was addressed to me. I opened it and found that it was opened it and found that it was a demand upon me for the immediate payment of $1,250,000. The letter stated that if the money was not given up at once to the presenter of the letter, that he would blow me, himself and the entire office up with dynamite. I read the letter and, placing it in an envelope, handed it back to him and turned to go into my private office when the explosion occurred."

Mr. Sage identified at as that of the man who demanded the money from him and then threw the bomb. Mr. Sage said tonight that he probably would be on Wall street tomorrow.

It Was Who Exploded the Bomb in Sage's Office.

ALBANY, N. Y., December 4 .- The dyna nite crank is thought to be Hiram D. Wilson, aged forty-six, an escaped lunatic and a native of Glen's Falls, Warren county. Wilson had escaped previously from Middletown and Utica asylums. He was very strong and of light complexion.

Wilson, after a short term in the insane asylums, has been discharged as cured or escaped. He has generally celebrated his freedom by making attempts to kill some one who refused to meet his demand for money. Several years ago he attempted to kill a man whom he had asked for money to set him up in business. On another occasion, when W. J. Arkell was in Albany, Wilson nade a demand on him and even attempted to assault him in his office. He has also threat ned the life of Goodwin Brown, one of the state lunacy commissioners. It was the loss of money which made him crazy.

In Which Seven Men Lose Their Lives. A Man Decapitated by a Train. Buried Under a Wall.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., December 4.-An explosion of gas caused a disastrous fire at the Jersey City terminus of the Pennsylvania railroad this morning. The company recently completed a magnificent train shed on a grade with the street elevated road, constructed from the river to Bergen hill, and were confrom the river to Bergen hill, and were structing new waiting rooms and ferry houses to correspond. The cars almost immediately took fire and engines and doctors have been summoned from all adjacent points. The accident is said to have been due to an open switch.

Two of the injured passengers have died, making seven deaths so far. The fireman, as well as the engineer of the steamboat train, was killed. Both trains were running eastward on parallel tracks and came together at full speed at a cross-over, the switch being probably broken. The freight crashed into the side of the passenger train. The freight was ordered at Putnam to take the west-bound track to allow the passenger train to pass it before making Douglass.

Governor Francis, of Missouri, has written an indignant letter to Governor Buchanan, asking who was responsible for the release of Palmer Derrick, who is charged with robbing the Corda, Mo., bank of $900. Derrick was arrested in Cocke county some weeks ago, and Deputy Sheriff Jackson went to the scene armed with a requisition. It is alleged that the civil officers hid Derrick and refused to deliver him up unless paid. Derrick was not closely watched and made his escape.

UNIVERSITY WITH US

The Extension Lectures at Once---The Opening Rally Monday.

A SCHEDULE OF THIRTY-SIX LECTURES.

The Joint Work of the Library and the State University, Assisted by Other Georgia Institutions.

The directors of the Young Men's Library held a special meeting last night to arrange the details of the university extension movement which begins Monday evening. were present Dr. H. C White, of the State university; President W. M. Slaton and Directors G. V. Gude, Joseph Hirsch, Charles A. Read, I. S. Hopkins, A. A. Meyer, Will Haight, W. G. Cooper, J. H. Lumpkin and

G. R. DeSaussure. Dr. White was present by special invitation and opened up the business with a statement of the nature of university extension in general and the plan to be persued in this par-

His remarks increased the earnestness and enthusiasm of the board, and after some in-teresting discussion of details a plan of procedure was agreed on. The library is to manage the business feature of the enterprise an guarantee the expenses. The University of Georgia undertakes to furnish the On this basis a series of six courses of lectures has been agreed upon. The first lecture will be delivered on next Friday night and the last of the thirty-six will be given on the 22d of April. There are six lectures on each subject and tickets for the six will be sold at $1. For the whole series of thirty-six lectures the fee will be $5. It is calculated that this will barely pay the ex-pense. It was first intended to fix the fee at $2 per course of six lectures, or $10 for the whole series of thirty-six, but after careful consideration it was concluded that large classes at $1 for six and $5 for thirty-six lectures would about pay out, and it was resolved to fix the fee at bare cost or a little below, in order to give the movement a fair start and bring it within the reach of every one who has a desire for higher education. At this rate there ought to be one to two hundred in tify the continuance of the lectures hereafter at this low fee, for it cannot be expected, and the library board does not desire that the lecturers continue to give their services entirely without compensation. It was a liberal thing on the part of the university faculty to offer their services free, and it required some nerve on the part of the library board to undertake the expense with so low a fee as $1 for six lectures. It is hoped that the people of Atlanta will appreclate these efforts to give them high-class lectures on the university plan, at a nomina cost. The movement has been a success everywhere. Chicago is going into it on a grand scale. She has engaged already nine teen of the most eminent specialists for next winter. Atlanta strikes boldly in at once, and, as usual Atlanta succeed, especially when she is backed by the University of Georgia, which will have the assistance of the other leading insti-

University Extension Lectures. Impressed with the great value of the recent movement in popular education, known as univer-sity extension, by which some part of the bene-tits of the higher education provided for the youth of the state at the universities and colleges may be brought to those who for any reason may not be able to avail themselves of a complete univer-sity education, the directors of the Young Men's Library Association have undertaken to inaugu rate in the city of Atlanta a series of university

The faculty of the State university has cordially co-operated with the library association and has agreed to provide the lecturers and teachers and to arrange for the subjects and dates of the lectures. These matters have therefore been placed in charge of the university faculty, who will provide that the courses shall be genuinely ative and as exhaustive of the special topics selected as the time allowed will permit. The members of the faculty have generously declined to receive any compensation for their services, being animated solely by the desire to popularize higher education and to extend its benefits as widely as possible. The business arrangements are in charge of a special committee of the Young Men's Library Association. Certain necessary expenses will be Association. Certain increasing expenses, in printing syllabuses of the lectures, etc., and it is proposed to meet these by a small charge for attendance upon the lectures.

For the present season six courses of six lectures each have been arranged as detailed below. The c ass for each course will be regularly enrolled. There will be no recitations, but at the conclusion of each lecture the lecturer will hold an informal conference with the class for elucidation of any points that may be desired.

The books of reference which it may be proper to consult in connection with the lectures will, for the most part, be found on the shelves of the Young Men's library.

The lectures will be given in the halls of the library building. The fee for each course of six lectures has been ed for the present at $1, or $5 for whole series of thirty-six.

Schedule of Lectures Monday evening, December 7th, at 7:30 o'clock: Preliminary meeting for organization; addresses tory of university extension by Dr. White, chairman of the university

Kill the Cause

Of Catarrh and You Have Permanent Cure

How Relief Was Gained in a Very Severe Case.

Diseases of long standing require long and per-sistent treatment to effect perfect cure, and this is particularly true of catarrh in the head. This unquestionably a constitutional disease and therefore requires a Constitutional Remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Local applications, like snuff and other inhalants, can at best give only shun and other innamits, can at best give only temporary relief, as they reach only the result and not the cause of the disease. The latter is found in the impure taint in the blood, which Hood's Sar-saparilla removes, and thus the benefit derived from this medicine is permanent. The following statement frankly gives the facts in a very severe case of

"It is true that I have received a great deal of benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla and think I would be entirely cured of catarth, if it had not been of so long standing. But Hood's Sarsapa-rilla helped me as no other medicine ever did. I had the disease 18 years, and a year before taking.

Friday evenings, December 11th, 18th, January 8th, 15th, 22d, 29th. Six lectures on mental science, by Rev. William E. Boggs, D.D., L.L.D., chancellor of the University of Geor-

These lectures will give some account of the science and its subject, the human mind or soul, together with an outline of the great powers of self-consciousness, sense-perception and memory, together with a brief view of the imagination, if time can be found for this faculty.

Course on Biology. Course on Biology

Monday evenings, December 14th, 21st, January 4th, 11th, 18th, 25th, Six lectures on biology, by John P. Campfell, A.B., Ph.D., professor of biology, University of Georgia.

This course is designed to present in detail a unficient number of living things to give broader nonceptions of the terms plant and animal than hose generally held. The types chosen will be mainly microscopic forms, because in these life is exhibited without many of the complications found in higher and more familiar plants and ani-mals. From these the attempt will be made to proceed inductively to some of the fundamenta properties of living things, and show as far as possible the exact basis upon which rests some of the now accepted theories of biology.

Roman Law and Jurisprudence Monday evenings, February 1st, 8th, 15th, 22d-29th; March 7th. Six lectures on the history of Roman law and jurisprudence. By J. H. T. MacPherson, Ph. D., professor of history and political science, University of Georgia.

This course will open with a description of the nature of the primitive Roman state and early legal institutions, and will trace the progress and development of the Roman law through all its opment of the Roman law through all its down to the codification of Justinian. special attention will be paid to the sources of Roman law, and to the gradual development and continuity of Roman legal and political institu-tions. The influence of Roman codes during the middle ages will be briefly sketched, and the influence of Roman law as the basis and goal of modern continental systems emphasized

FAIRBURN, Ga., December 4.—[Special.]—
Arbor Day was appropriately observed in Campbell county, and especially so at the Fairburn institute. The programme was carried out in full. At 9 o'clock a great many of the people of Fairburn and surrounding country assembled at the college building, together with the pupils. The exercises lasted about two hours and a half. The pupils acquitted themselves with credit. Twelve trees were planted—all red elm. The grounds are now beautifully graded and terraced. This is the largest and prettiest park on the Atlanta and West Point railroad.

UNITED STATES WEATHER MAP FOR TODAY.

Explanatory Note.

OCLEAR OFAIR . O CLOUDY ORAINS OSNOW

Dotted lines, or isothermal, pass through points of equal temperature. Unbroken lines, or isobars, pass through points of equal air pressure. The arrows fly with the wind. The figures at the end of the isotherms show the temperature all along that line. The isobars, or lines of equal pressure, run round a "high" cold wave or a "low" rain area, just as hillside ditches run round a knoll. The isobars rise one above the other with the grade of the atmospheric hill, or descend with the grade of the atmospheric valley. When you see the figures 30.01 at the end of a line it means that at all places where the line runs the air is high enough to balance in weight 30.01 inches of mercury. The same for 30.2, 30.3, etc. The cold comes with the high atmosphere, and rain usually with a "low."

Generally fair weather exists over the southern half of the United States, but during the twelve hours preceding 8 o'clock last evening rains had occurred along the Atlantic coast from Jacksonville to New York. At 10 o'clock it was still raining along the lake region and at St. Paul. The area of low pressure was central near St. Paul, with a barometer of 29.52 inches. The "high" was central on the extreme southeast Atlantic coast, where a barometer of 30.24 inches was reported. Generally fair weather, with but slight changes in temperature, and light, variable winds, may be expected today.

Acting on this proposition of Mr. Good, presuming he intended to me good his offer, we went forward and presented two well authenticated cases which justly en titled us to the money, and we then drew on him for the $5,000. Our draft was returned dis nonored, stating in his refusal to pay he did not know the parties, neither did he owe then anything. We propose before we get through with him, if we should fail to get the $5,000, he shall at least know who we are, and we will not charge him anything for the inform Now Thos. F. Good comes forward again with another proposition, under date of October 1815 in which he proposes to pay our company $500 if we will place our springs for twenty for hours under the control of three disinterested parties, with the privilege of taking from the spring a sufficient quantity of water to be analized by Professor Doremus, with the professor that it confirms or approximates first analysis of Professor Doremus. Thomas F. Gord admits in this proposition that he sent his agent, Professor H. C. White, who, uninvited, gathered the water from one of our springs, said agent being unknown personally to any of our company, and gathered the water, if he did so at all, without our knowledge or consent. Now Mr. Good reports the analysis of his agent, Professor White, to contain one grain and a fractional part of a grain of Lithium to the imperial gallon, whereas we have in our possession a letter from Professor White himself, stating his analysis showed two grains Lithium to the imperial gallon.
We ask, will the public endorse any such crookedness as this on the part of Mr. Good? We will give him some advice, and that, too, without any charge: That hereafter, if he conti to practice his methods of attempting to secure the analysis of competing springs, that he and his agent ought to more fully understand each other, so that their statements may agree competing the statements of the statement of t with the other.

We now make this proposition to Mr. Good: If he will place himself right before the public by coming forward and paying to us the $5,000 to which we are entitled, then we will agree to place our two prings, and require him to place his two springs in the hands of copable and impartial chemists and make a thorough analysis of both waters, and if our spring do not show a larger amount of Lithium to the imperial gallon than the Buffalo Lithia, or fall to indicate better results for which the use of the water is indicated than the Buffale Lithia springs, then in that event we will agree to return to him the $5,000 and pay ourselves five hundree ($500) dollars for the analysis of both waters.

Professor Waller, of Columbia College, New York, analysis shows .013 grains Lithium per imperial gallon in the Buffalo Lithia water. "What have you to say about this analysis, Mr. Good?" We repeat that the Bowdon Lithia Water is the best on the continent. The use of it will verify our claim to this distinction. Those, therefore, wanting Lithia water send your orders to the Bowdon Lithia Springs Co., Lithia Springs P. O., Ga., and you will be sure of Sensational Report About the Richmond and Danville Headquarters.

TO BE REMOVED, HOWEVER.

report was started in the Kiser building sterday that the Richmond and Danville before the winter is over. Wild fire never flew faster.

night the report was all the talk in the and had spread out on the streets. he wish may have been father to the aght. A great many of the officials and clerks in the Kiser building are from ashington and Richmond. Most of the hers are from Savannah. As the holidays proach these men naturally yearn to to their old homes and spend nas. Hence they listened to the story of the stories is that a clerk was talking the morning of bringing his family to Atnta. His chief suggested that it would be ell to wait for a month or two.

ne one else remarked that it is a little why set to talk about removal. That was ken as significant. And so the report flew. Mr. Pat Calhoun and General Manager ren are both out of the city. Their representatives said that there was no ground at all the report. Atlanta is the most convenient of the city of the convenient of the city of the convenient of the ce for directing the operation of the vast removal was made here because of this 's central location. Being by far the best int for the general offices, it would be a mis-te to make a change, and the idea is not enned by those in authority.

All there is in it is the wish of the men togo the past it has been customary for the rd of directors to declare the semi-annual and of directors to declare the semi-annual yidend, when there was one to declare, at regular December meeting, or the first adnesday in the month. Last year the ard did not meet on that day, and it was the didle of December before the dividend was lared. Nor has the dividend been declared year, but as the Georgia Pacific guarament the Central stockholders 7 per cent, no prehension is felt yet.

Ko announcement is looked for until after Richmond Terminal's annual meeting.

ond Terminal's annual meeting

Richmond Terminal's annual meeting at Wednesday.
What huris Savannah is that if the stock-ders' excursion is shut off, the merchants of tacity will lose some good holiday trade. It has stockholders always attended the anal meeting, collected their dividend and not a large part of it in shopping. Prior to 1887 the Central's stock was largely din Georgia. Nearly every planter along line of the road held a share or two which itted his whole family to a free ride to Saitled his whole family to a free ride to Samah in December and again in January.

Hetty Green owned 6,000 shares and the estate had a large block, but, outside those two blocks, the rest of the k was in small holdings. During the is ix months of 1886, General mander, the Calhouns and H. B. Hollins ght up thousands of shares from the Georgia mers, and now there is only a comparatively all amount held in Georgia.

A Richmond and Danville man stated yesday that the matter of discontinuing the NEEDS EXERCISE.

Mr. Ryan Will Fix Up a Gymnasium in His One of Mr. Steve Ryan's friends carried him a batch of sporting newspapers yesterday, and the prisoner read them with avidity. The limits of the room in which he is confined are so circumscribed that it is not possible for him to get much exercise. To obviate this, Mr. Ryan converts a part of his room in o a gymnasium. It will not be a very elaborate a gymnasium. It will not be a very elaborate affair, but will afford him plenty of exercise.

"You know how active I am," he said to a caller. "I am fond of motion. Why, in the store I walked miles and miles every day. There were very few moments when I was standing still. I require a certain amount of exercise to keep well and I feel pretty sure that this confinement will in time tell sadly on my health."

that this confinement will in time tell sadly on my health."

Mr. Ryan's family sends him his meals three times a day. He eats little, however, as his appetite has become impaired since his incarceration began.

Mr. Ryan's attorneys rarely visit him. They are still reticent about what course they intend taking. They will not say whether or not they contemplate carrying the matter to the supreme court.

The police force of the city was kept on a lively chase nearly all last night by a negro named Dave Goosby, who had by some means secured a policeman's whistle, which he blew frequently, while rapidly going from one point

The continuous biowing of the whistle caused many people to apprehend some serious trouble, and much excitement was caused. Dave was not apprehended until today, when he was arrested and fined by the Burned to Death in His Bed.

AMERICUS, Ga., December 4.—[Special.]— News reached here today of a death by fire that occurred about seven miles from Americus. It seems that Eli Block, an old decrepit negro in his ninetieth year, was confined to bed alone in a room, while the other inmates of the house were in the field at work.
The first intimation his daughter had of the fire was when the roof was falling in. They hastened to the spot, and raising the window at the old man's bed from the outside, attempted to rescue him, but his body was too large to squeeze through the opening. The origin of the fire was accidental. Burned to Death in His Bed.

Frederick Warde at the Opera House. The announcement of the forthcoming engagement of the eminent tragedian, Mr. Frederick Warde, and his splendid supporting company, which occurs next Monday and Tuesday, December 7th and 8th, will be a source of extreme pleasure to our theatergoers, as it will enable them to see this truly great actor in a play new to Atlanta, for on Monday night and at the Tuesday matine. for on Monday night and at the Tuesday matine for on Monday night and at the Tuesday matine, he will present his latest and greatest success, from the gifted pen of Henry Guy Carleton, entitled "The Lion's Mouth," which is said to be the most besutiful play now before the American public. It is magnificently acted, most superbly costumediand presented in a sumptuous manner by new and special scenery.

On Tuesday night Mr. Warde will revive his former great success, "The Mountebank," and will undoubtedly be greeted by large and brilliant andiences, as his talents and genius richly deserve.

Father and Son.

People may theorize about heredity, but their conclusions are very unsatisfactory.

Occasionally, a great man is succeeded by sons and grandsons who are worthy of him, but such cases may well be called exceptional. In intellect and in morals sons are frequently surprisingly unlike their fathers.

A man devotes the energies of a lifetime to building up a splendid name and a fortune acquired by honest enterprise. He goes down to his grave full of years and full of honors, and his son squanders his estate in an idle, dissolute life, without ever showing a spark of his father's virture and

Here is Cyrus W. Field, dying-perhaps dead before these lines are in type He made a fortune by hard and honest efforts. He helped others, led a clean and pure life, gave to the world the Atlantic cable, and now in his old age death and disease smite his loved ones, and his son goes to a lunatic asylum under the wellfounded suspicion of making the most dishonest failure of the year.

Only a short time ago men pointed to Mr. Field as an example of the prosperity and happiness that sometimes fall to the lot of a good man. It seemed that with his fortune and his children, and his troops of friends, he was destined to end his life without being touched by either sorrow or shame. The afflictions caused by the hand of Providence we cannot discuss. But what shall we say of the wreck and desolation wrought by the son of this man? It is sad -it is pitiful-and there are fathers all over the land who will have the heartache, and a vague horrible fear taking shape in their minds when they read this story.

One feels that the younger Field is a parricide. His insanity is the only hopeful feature of the situation. Possibly he has been mentally unsound and irresponsible longer than his friends suspected. It may be that he did not clearly realize what he was doing. But this is only a far-fetched surmise. The probability is that he is only one of the many sons whose depravity has ruined and broken the hearts of their fathers.

Democrat or Mugwump?

The developments in the contest for the speakership show beyond all question that the element which the democratic party has most to fear is mugwumpery. The affair thus labeled is a composite one. It embraces the monometallists, the money power, the free traders and the so-called reformers, and whenever and wherever it has left its impress on the democratic party the result has been defeat.

Its maneuvers are interesting. Every democrat can remember when it took hold of Mr. Clevelend and made a victim of him Its influence was so impressive that Mr. Cleveland was persuaded he owed his election to the support of this element. The great democratic party of the country was a mere vapory mass compared to the compact and eminent pressure of mugwumpery. A president never made a greater mistake than this, nor paid dearer for it. If Mr. Cleveland had been the only victim the event would have been regrettable, but not serious. But the whole democratic party was the victim, and the result has been deplorable.

The revolt against mugwumpery was sudden and serious, and out of the reaction has developed the vicious McKinley law and all the evils of republican legislation. That this reaction did not also develop into the infamous force bill is due to the courageous stand which the democrats made in favor of free coinage, and to the efforts of a democrat whose name is never mentioned by the organs of mugwumpery unless it is coupled with terms of the foulest abuse-Arthur P. Gorman. We are used to taking a too superficial view of political events. It is the fashion to say that Mr. Cleveland was defeated because he offended the workers in his party by keeping several thousand partisan republicans in fat offices during his administration. The whole deplorable result of this reaction against the influence of mugwumpery is brought to view when we inquire as to the result of Mr. Cleveland's defeat. If the whole of that result were combined in the vicious McKinley bill the fact ought to turn every intelligent and patriotic democrat against a political policy which is a criminal offense against common sense. Every evil that grows out of McKinleyism, all the republican extravagance developed in the last congress, grew out of the efforts of democratic leaders to graft the disease of mugwumpery on the democratic party.

It would seem that the collapse of 1888 with all its dire results, ought to have satis fied democrats that the true policy of the party is to get as far away from mugwumpery and its influences as possible Nevertheless, it is to be observed that a number of democrats of prominence and in fluence still clamor for the mugwump policy. We are practically told that because the mugwumps are in favor of the single gold standard the democrats should endorse, at least by their silence, the republican act demonetizing silver; that, because the mugwumps are free traders, the democratic party should give that policy its support.

It would be difficult to find a more inter esting scheme than this. When the mugwumps are sick of an inflammation the democrats are to go to bed with the roseola, There is something spectacular in a programme which proposes to furnish forth a funeral feast for the democrats with the coldbaked meats of 1888. But it is not alone the mugwump policy which the democratic party is asked to adopt. Its newspapers are expected to endorse the abuse which the mugvump organs are in the habit of heaping on prominent democrats, and it not infrequently happens that these newspapers completely fulfill expectation in this respect. When th mugwumps declare that David Bennett Hill is a rascal and that Arthur Pue Gorman is a disreputable man, there are plenty of democratic newspapers ready to endorse this abuse and to print it in their columns. The great trouble with such men as Hill and Gorman is the fact that they have never made any compromise with mugwumpery. They are democrats, pure and simple, and they take no pains to hide their contempt for the mugwumps and their policy.

It seems to be a small matter, and yet there is a vital principle behind the question whether the democratic party shall inoculate itself with the contagion of mugwumpery.

A Madman's Work.

The attack upon Russell Sage was the work of a madman.

No sane man, anarchist or communist, is going to try to force a million dollars from a capitalist by confronting him with a dynanite bomb.

The uncertainty of such an explosive was clearly illustrated in this affair. The bomb spared the life of the man it was intended for, and destroyed the man who threw it pesides killing innocent bystanders. ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the dynamite deviltry results in a similar way. The victim picked out escapes and the criminal and other persons present are killed.

There are anarchists who would willingly nurder the rich if they could do it profitably and safely. But not one of them while in his senses is going to try the bomb-throwing experiment in a small room like Russell Sage's office. These fellows work in a different way. They keep concealed and try threats at long range. They never go alone in daylight to attack a man. They know, too, that even a big capitalist is not pre pared on a moment's notice to turn over a large amount in cash. Time is required. No speculator or banker goes about like Monte Cristo with a million in his pocket.

The New York assassin was simply lunatic. He will have no imitators. Such crimes are altogether exceptional and have no significance.

That Dakota Indictment.

If General Beauregard and the other citizens of New Orleans who have been indicted in a federal court in South Dakota, on account of their connection with the Louisiana lottery, can be carried 1,500 miles away from home and tried by their enemies, then our institution of trial by jury amounts to very little.

Once admit the right of the federal government to commit this outrage, and the liberty of the citizen will be a meaningless phrase. The time-honored theory of the law has been that a person charged with crime must be tried by a jury drawn from the vicinity in which the crime was committed. The fact that lottery circulars were found in a mail received in Dakota from New Orleans does not necessarily constitute a crime that must be dealt with by the Dakota courts. It would be an offense that could be handled by a federal court in New

Under the circumstances, it is difficult to see how it can serve the interests of justice to drag these Louisianians to the bleak northwest, 1,500 miles away, to answer this charge. In considering this question it does not matter whether a man is for or against the lottery. The point involved touches one of the most vital rights of a citizen-the right of trial by a jury of his peers where the alleged crime was committed.

Safer Than Bank Robbing

More train robberies continue to be reported. And why not? As The Philadelphia Times remarks, train robbing is safer and more satisfactory than bank robbing, and seems to be growing in favor. It is moderately profitable, but the returns are marvelously quick. Train robbers require very little assistance. Two or three men with an outfit of revolvers and masks are more than match for the defenders of an express car. After the affair is over escape seems to be comparatively easy.

This has been the history of train robbing down to the present time. But we feel justified in predicting a speedy change in the situation. Express agents, train hands and passengers are beginning to take a lively interest in this business. Hereafter they will be more vigilant, better prepared, and the robbers will have to kill or be killed Then the authorities will offer larger re wards, and the states will make this crime a capital offense. The forces of civilization are amply sufficient to crush outlaws of the Rube Burrows stamp, and the railroads and the traveling public are influential enough to have their own way in this matter.

Train robbing will soon be a thing of the

THERE SEEMS to be no doubt that Colone Whiskers Jones has carried his advocacy o Mills too far. Mills is strong enough to stand things, but he isn't strong enough to stand the support of Colonel Whiskers Jones.

THE BOSTON TRANSCRIPT remarks that with Arthur P. Gorman supporting Crisp it is hardly to be supposed that the democrats will perpetuate the "colossal blunder" of electing he Georgia congressman as speaker. This is the way the mugwumps talk.

THE COURIER-JOURNAL says that Mills will never be acceptable to republicans. He is acceptable, however, to the mugwumps.

RUSSELL SAGE seems to be one of the fee nen in the country who know how to dodge s dynamite bomb. The czar should come over and take lessons.

THE OUTLOOK, just now, is that mugwumpry will not be allowed to control the de cratic party next year.

AN EXCHANGE remarks that if Hill or Go nan had been in Tilden's place in 1876 the dent at that time. There is nothing wrong

THE WILL of the late Alfred Bedlow, of New York, leaves $1 each to his wife and children. His fortune is left to a lady friend.

One of the most remarkable proceeding in any court of law was the application a few days ago in Philadelphia by Dr. John De Haven White, once famous all over this country, to have his sons show cause why they should not support him in his old age. The Montgomery lodge of Masons supported the application, and it was shown that the old man, who is A.M., M. D. and D. D. S., was refused admisson to the Masonic home because he had in his two sons legal and technical "means of support," although the young men contributed nothing to his sustenance. Dr. White was the founder of the first dental college in Philadelphia, the recognized dental authority of the country for years and the preceptor of Dr. Thomas W. The Atlanta Election

From The Macon Telegraph. Atlanta has just passed through the throes of a third prohibition campaign; but she passe through safely, and is little the worse for it. The general excellence of the local government in that city is universally conceded, and its liquor reguations are admitted to be unusually satisfact To throw away a system of government which had proven itself strong, and place the affairs of the city in the hands of untried men actuated by notions untried in practice, or notions which, when acted upon for a brief period, insufficient perhaps for a thorough test, were overwhelmingly repudiated at the first opportunity, would have been plainly an unwise step. From such advices as have reached The Telegraph, the triumph of the anti-barroom men would probably have resulted in some very radical changes in the administration of the city's affairs -the swapping of men as well as of methods. How sweeping these changes would have been is uncertain; but that uncertainty was not a thing to be lightly risked by a city already prosperous and well regulated. Aside from the merits of the prohibition question itself, Atlanta is to be congratulated, we think, that the faction—for it about the bitter campaign just ended-should have been defeated by a majority so large as to discourage further agitation for a long

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

That Probibition Convention. ATLANTA, Ga., December 4.—Editor Constitu tion: Although I have had my say through your columns concerning the advisability of Atlanta securing the national probilition convention, I have heard expressed since the appearance of San Small's card, that "it is a trick to bring on a local Small's card, that "It is a trick to bring on a local option election." I can not see how this can be, as the prohibition party is quite the reverse of a local option organization, believing that the liquor question is a national issue in its broadest sense. I am confident that none of the members of the prohibition party who are forwarding the movement to secure the convention have the least idea of its affecting local matters in Atlanta; but are governed in their natters in Atlanta; but are governed in their actions by a sincere desire to advance the inter-sets of Atlanta.

Knowing what I do about the convention of 1888, at Indianapolis, I feel safe in saying that the bringing of this convention here will tax the hotel capacity of the city to its utmost for several days, and in this way alone the city will receive back the money it will have to expend upon the convention several times over.

money it will have to expend upon the conseveral times over.

If the business men of Atlanta want this convention, there is no time to be lost in coming together and extending a formal invitation, as the national committee meets on the 17th. This is purely a business matter for our people to consider, as it means the biggest advertisement At lanta has ever had, as every state will be represented by men in almost every calling, including many of wealth and prominence in business in their communities.

J. B. JAQUES,

AT TRINITY LAST EVENING.

How the Church Membership Enjoyed the Occasion of a Social Gathering.

The Ladies' Parsonage Aid Society, of Trinity church, assisted by the Young People's Social Club, gave a delightful social reception in the basement of the church last evening.

The entertainment began by a children's eandy pulling from 3 until 5 o'clock in the afcandy pulling from 3 until 5 o'clock in the af-ternoon. The little folks enjoyed it heartily. Refreshments were served in the three class rooms of the basement during the whole even-ing. The ladies pride themselves upon the beauty of their tables and the delicacy of their contents. The supper was a splendid success and quite a large sum was realized for the par-sonage fund.

The main room of the basement was decora-ed with ivy sprays over cornice work and chandeliers.

At 9 o'clock the old people got young again and engaged in a taffy pulling with evident

A varied programme of music and recita-tions enlivened the evening. Misses: Rich and Lizzie Johnston each gave taking recita-tions; Professor Krutch, Miss Congdon and Miss Martin performed on the piano, and Mr. Frank Boland on the violin.

The church members feel that these enter tainments at Trinity are far-reaching in their effects, helping to bring together into closer relations the various elements of the membership, as well as introducing and making welcome many visitors and strangers.

SPEAKERSHIP STATISTICS

Which Are of Particular Interest Just at This Time.

The extreme probability that the pending con test for the speakership will result in the award of that honor to a southerner, in the person of either Mills, Crisp or McMillin, suggests examination into the part which the section country below the Ohio river has played in th organization of the popular branch of congressions Frederick Muhlenberg, the Pennsylvania "fighting parson" of the revolution, was chosen its first presiding officer, just 102 years ago last

Investigation reveals a remarkable condition o offairs. It is found that of the thirty-one men who n that long period have been honored with the speakership, no less than fourteen, or nearly half, were born below the Ohio river. supplied five, who were Henry Clay, Philip S. Barbour, a relative of the present senior senator from that state; Andrew Stevenson, R. M. T. Hunter and John W. Jones. The native Kentuckians who have achieved this distinction are: John W. White, a brilliant jurist, who have a senser as thirty, six but died before who became speaker at thirty-six, but died before his career was rounded up by other propective hon ors; Linn Boyd and John G. Carlisle. North Car olina may claim Nathiel Macon and James K. Polk, while Langdon Cheves and James L. Orr were sons of South Carolina. John Bell, of Tennessee, and Howell Cobb, of Georgia, are the lone stars from those states that have shown in the speakership galaxy. Two of these men were residing in other states than those of their nativity when they went to congress—Clay and Polk. The fame of the former was so inseparably interwoven with the history of Kentucky, he having gone from Richmond when a youth, and that of Polk so closely linked with Andrew Jackson and his Herclosely linked with Andrew Jackson and his Her-mitage home near the capital of Tennessee, that few are aware that neither was a real child of the wealth which gave him prominence.

It is a notable circumstance that all of the men elected speaker, from the first to the fifty-first congress, were born in one or another of only thir teen states; and further, that on the soil of only seven states outside of the south has a presiding officer of the more numerous branch of the na-tional legislature been born. These statements are rather startling at first glance, but are strictly irate. The seven states referred to are Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Ohio and Maine. The native Pennsylvanians who won this honor were F. A. lenberg, whose gavel dropped for the first time March 4, 1789, John W. Davis, James G. Blaine, Michael C. Kerr and Samuel J. Randall; Connecti-cut gave birth to Jonathan Trumbull, Theodore Sedgwick, Gulasha A. Grow; New Jersey to Jonathan Dayton and William Pennington; New York to John W. Taylor and Schuyler Colfax; Massachusetts boasts Joseph B. Varnum, Robert C. Winthrop and Nathaniel P. Banks, while Ohio is entitled to J. Warren Keifer, and Maine to T.

Occasionally a native of one state would be a citizen of another when elected speaker, but this has been very rare. The only instances beside Clay and Polk were the cases of Sedgwick, who early moved to Massachusetts from Connecticut; John W. Davis, a Pennsylvanian who went to congress from Indiana; Gulasha Grow, who left Connecticut in favor of Pennsylvania; Schuyler Colfax, by birth a New Yorker, but owing his onal seat to Indianians; Mr. Blaine is not "the man from Maine." for his eyes first saw the light in Pennsylvania; and Kerr, a son of Pennsylvania, owed his promotion to Indiana

It is a fact remarkable for its uniqueness that the six southern states of Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina should have given birth to the fourteen Carolina should have given birth to the fourteen speakers credited to the south, while not one of the sister southern states of Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas, Florida, Maryland or West Virginia has produced a man destined to this high station. And equally strange has it been that the two states of Virginia and Kentucky were the places of nativity of one-fourth of the mon who, have been the presiding officers of the men who have been the presiding officers of the men who have been the presiding officers of the popular branch of congress since 1789. And coming down to the present contest, it is found that the three leading candidates are southerners, two of them Kentuckians by birth-Mills and McMillin, scions of that state which has had more to do with the speaker-ship, in a way, than any other commonwealth. When Henry Clay was representing a blue grass district in that state he was six times chosen. district in that state he was six times ch speaker. John White held that proud position for one term, Linn Boyd for two and Mr. Carlisle for three. It is thus seen that this quartet whom Kentucky sent to congress occupied the speaker's chair for twenty-four years, or nearly one-fourth of the period of the existence of con-gress; and now this same commonwealth comes gress; and now this same commonwealth comes to the front with two strings to her bow for the latest award. ls it not peculiar that among other states no na-tive of Missouri, Michigan, Delaware, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire, Colorado, Alabama, Iowa, Kansas, Minne ota, Oregon, Wisconsin, Arkansas, Mississ poi, Louisiana, Texas should have never had the speakership, while thirteen other states supplied them all? The single state of Virginia supplied as many sons for this honor as have Maine, Ohio, New York and New Jersey combined; and either a Virginian or a Kentuck ian has been in the chair for thirty-nine out of 102 years. The only native w stern man that ever won the honor was Keifer, of Ohio. The speakership is a prize which the south has received to an extent far in excess of its population; and when it failed either the far east or the central north won it. Again: In the history of the government seve se four were southerners. They wer Nathaniel Macon, of North Carolina; Henry Clay of Kentucky; Andrew Stevenson, of Virginia; Schuyler Colfax, of Indiana; James G. Blaine, Samuel J. Randall and John G. Carlisle. Clay and Stevenson are the only men who presided for over three terms, the former having been re-elected five times and the latter three times.

Then, too, the only speaker who became president of the United States was James K. Polk, a southerner. Only three speakers besides him were ever nominated for the presidency, and of these two were southerners—Henry Clay and John Bell. James G. Blaine is, of course, the other man. Schuyler Colfax, it may be mentioned, was the only speaker to be elected vice president h being elevated in 1868. Nathaniel Ma or vice president, but he was not a nominee any party.

The youngest speaker the house ever had was a southerner—R. M. T. Hunter, of Virginia, who was elected in 1839, at the age of thirty. The belief prevails that to Henry Clay belongs this distinc-tion, but the fact is otherwise. Clay was a trifle under thirty when sent to the senate, but he was thirty-four when chosen to preside over the house, The brilliant Howell Cobb, of Georgia in 1811. was of the same age when elected speaker; John White, of Kentucky, was barely turned thirty-six; Gulasha Grow was just thirty-eight, and Mr. Colfax, his immediate successor, was forty-one

If speakers do not become presidents their political end? The circumstance that men who have presided over the house rarely advance to the white house has given rise to a mild form of superstition regarding the position, and, it is re superstition regarding the position, and, it is related, this apparent fatality has deterred more than one politician while coveting the presidency from seeking the speakership as a leverage to his ambition. One would think at first glance that the speakership would be a stepping stone to the presidency, the positions being closely allied in point of dignity and honor; but history surely repels the presumption that the one is an avenue to the other.

the other A good many speakers have been elected to the United States senate.

Mr. Randall is almost the only speaker who re ained a power on the floor of the house after he the chair. Looking backward we find that many of the speakers virtually closed their politimany of the speakers virtually closed their politi-cal careers when their terms expired. The presi-dential and vice presidential nominees and aspir-ants and the senators are, of course, exceptions to this proposition, and several others in addition should be made. Theodore Sedgwick led an active life after he left congress. He was chief justice of the supreme court of Massachu-setts, and one of the earliest active oppo-nents of slavery. John W. Davis, sub-sequently to his congressional record, was a federal commissioner to China, and governor of Oregan in 1853-4. Howell Cobb, after he retired sequently to his congressions received a federal commissioner to China, and governor of Oregan in 1853-4. Howell Cobb, after he retired from the house, became governor of Georgia in 1851, and six years later was secretary of the treasury. General N. P. Banks was chosen speaker in 1856, and very soon after was made governor of Massachusetts. His greatest influence in congress was exerted in the exciting period immediately following the war. The contest for speaker in his case was the most pro-tracted in the history of the country, over 130 bal-lots being required to name the winner. Galusha Grow, in 1863, after eleven years' service

Galusha Grow, in 1863, after eleven years' service in the house, declined to return, but in 1873 was defeated in gubernatorial aspirations, and two years later was letten for the senate. Of recent speakers, perhaps Mr. Blaine his done his best work since he retired from that post. As presidential nominee, senator, secretary of state under two administrations, he measured the most illustrious part of his life since he left the house. It remains to be seen how Mr. Carlisle bears himself in the sonate and Mr. Reed on the floor of the n the senate, and Mr. Reed on the floor nouse, which he ruled a lew months ago.

This brief outline of the speakership successloes not apply, of course, to the continental gress, which was in existence from September, 1774, to October, 1788. It had sixteen presidents, six of whom were southerners. In 1789 the national congress was formally organized in the same manner as at present, its chief officer being a speaker instead of president, as under the co

They stopped at Little river and took a look at Mrs. Belknap Smith's stamp mill, which was in operation day and night. The gold mine is on the McDuffie side of the river, a few miles from the stamp mill or crusher which is on the Wilkes side. Mr. and Mrs Holliday saw the sand into which the mill re duces the rock, with the glittering particles shining in it. They were told by Mrs. Smith that from Monday to Friday, four days of the last week, the mill had furnished the value of $800 in gold particles. The expense of separating it, including mining transportation. crushing, in fact everything, was $125. This leaves a clear profit of $675. If this could be kept up long, it would make Mrs. Smith very rich. We have been told that when Mrs. Peyton Sale, of Goshen, mined some years ago, she made $800 one day.

ESERTED HERO ANOTHER CHANGE

As to Be Made in the Management of The Southern Alliance Farmer.

MR. LARRY GANTT REMAINS AS EDITOR,

But Will Retire to the Solitudes of His Oconee County Farm and Amid Its Inspiration Write Editorials.

An important change is to be made in the management of The Southern Alliance

The deal has already been consummated, and all that remains to be done is the settling of a few minor details about the editorial manage ment of the alliance organ.

"It's not Tom Watson at all," says Mr.
Gantt. "There has never been the remotest probability of his being connected with the mouthpiece of the state alliance, and he has never spoken to me about it, all reports and talk to the contrary, notwithstanding. I was joking about that."

But a deal has been pending for several days which would bring about a vital change in the management of The Alliance Farmer. That deal was closed yesterday, and the change will

The negotiations were between Editor Larry Gantt, of The Southern Alliance Farmer, and Mr. M. D. Irwin.
Mr. Irwin is the editor of The Conyers Solid outh, and is a son-in-law of Hon. W. L. Peek, president of the alliance exchange.

Editor Gantt owns more of the stock of The Southern Alliance Farmer than any other one man. It was through his efforts in its behalf that The Alliance Farmer was tided through the financial troubles which pressed heavily upon it in the spring and summer of this year He came to its rescue, liquidated some of its debts, giving his own personal note therefore. He has had an abiding faith in the alliance paper and has worked hard to make it a sucss. But broken down in constitution, physically unable to perform the many duties devolving upon him, Mr. Gantt has been desirous of disposing of his stock and retiring from the editorial chair of the paper.

With this end in view he began negotiations with Mr. Irwin, editor of The Conyers Solid South, a good newspaper man, and a fine busi-pects of the paper, as well as its present condition, and made Editor Gantt an offer for his interest in the paper. Last Wednesday the offer was accepted, and the papers signed.

The terms of the agreement have not been made public, and the gentlemen interested refuse to talk, but it is generally understood that Mr. Gantt will remain the editor of the paper. He will not live in Atlanta, but will go to his farm in Oconee county near Wat-kinsville.

He will write editorials regularly for the paper, but it will be directed by Mr. Irwin. Mr. Irwin will manage the business department, and will devote his attention largely to that work. He is also a splendid writer, and the columns of The Alliance Farmer will sparkle with articles from his pen.

Mrs. Lizzie Blackwell, the sister of Mr Gantt, who has been literary editor of The Alliance Farmer, will remain in that capacity. The full details of the change have not ye een arranged, or, if they have, have been

Mr. Gantt is very reticent on the subject, and will say nothing further than that he ex pects Mr. Irwin to be in Atlanta today. Ther all that remains to be done will be arranged.

Mr. Gantt is in feeble health, and will go to his Oconee county farm as soon as things are settled. He Was Only Joking.

"I would be glad," said Mr. Gantt yester-day, "that you would correct the report made in today's paper that Congressman Watson has bought an interest the paper. When the reporter asked me about it, I replied with a laugh that it was true, intending it as a joke. I had been asked about it so much that I had began to consider it as nothing but a joke. I have never spoken a word to Mr. Watson about The Alliance Farmer, and I think the report was started as a joke." With the practical retirement of Mr. Gantt from the editorial control of The Alliance Farmer, due, as it is, to his ill health, he prob-ably retires from newspaper work permanently. Larry Gantt has long been a familiar figure in Georgia journalism. He is a free lance, and arraigned his opponents in such caustic words of criticism as to gain him a reputation as an aggressive writer. His extreme opinions expressed in his own burning words has got him into a duel or two—on paper. He has always been known as a successful newsaper man, and no newspaper was ever known to fail under his guidance.

A few months ago he took charge of the alli-ance organ. The paper was near to going under and he took charge of the editorial and under and he took charge of the editorial and business departments and infused new life into them. The editorial columns sparkled with new life, the receipts in the business office were nearly doubled. A new era of prosperity set in for the paper. But the strain was too great for one man and Mr. Gantt had to succumb. About two months ago he went to his home and was kept there quite ill, until about three weeks ago. Then he came back to Atlanta, but not well by any means. Emaciated and enfeebled, he took up his pen again. The paper showed his handiwork once more, but the editor was not able to perform the duties of his position as he was wont, and so has disposed of his interest.

He has bought a small farm, near Watkinsville, seven miles from Athens, and will move his family there, and breathing the invigorating air of east Georgia, will seek to regain his impaired health.

THE POTPOURRI CARNIVAL. Captain Jackson.

Miss Eliza Whitner's class of young ladies of the Central Presbyterian Sunday school gave a charming entertainment last evening at the bome of Captain and Mrs. Henry

Besides the young people of the Sunday school a large number of the Central church school a large number of the Central church members were present, and by young and old the evening was spent most delightfully.

The potpourri carnival, as the name implies, was a medley of pleasant features, all of which were quite novel and entertaining.

The potpourri march was first given by the young ladies of the class in fancy costumes. Next Mrs. Piper's family entertained all with its quaint and humcrous features. Mr. Logan Jones then gave an Indian dance in buckskin, warpaint and feathers.

The coquet's dance was performed by Miss Florence Jackson with rare grace and beauty. Her lithe figure kept wonderful harmony with the changing measures of the music. Miss Mattie Cobb Howard also danced the grandmother's minuet with all the quaintness and formality of former generations.

The song, "Buy a Broom," was sung with splendid effect by Miss Mamie Fife. Then followed a Japanese tea and fancy fair as the conductive element of the account of the conductive element of the account of the account

The rest of the evening was spent delightfully in an informal reception. Mr. Warren Howard furnished the music for the occasion. The young people remained until quite a late hour amusing themselves as only young folks can.

Those present are loud in their praises of Miss Whitner's Sunday school class, and its

THE GLAD TIDINGS

Carried to Peter Daniels in His Dreary Prison Cell.

HE IS THANKFUL FOR THE REPRIEVE

How He Shows His Gratitude-His Law yer Gathers More Evidence-Will Another Take Daniels's Place?

Early yesterday morning Peter Daniels was apprised of Governor Northen's clemency toward him, and he was so full of joy that he could hardly contain himself. "I knew," he said, "that his most excellent and esteemed excellency would not count'nance this poor nigger's death. I am over-rejoiced at the governor's kind and noble act for ne. It seemed that I was near the edge of eternity, and I was nearly crazy. Every day and night seemed only a few hours long. All day long I pray and read the scripture, and when night arrive I pray ag'in and then try an' sleep. Every time I fall asleep I sees visions; I has curious dreams. I seed the governor and that kind gentleman that wrote about me and give $25 for my defense. It's Mr. Inman, I mean. I see them in my sleep and hear the governor say: 'Peter, do you swear you be innocent of that woman's blood?' and I say: 'Yes, governor, your most excellent highness, the good Lord know I didn't shoot that woman. Yes, sir, I am innocent,' and then he reply: 'Peter, you kin get a new trial. I give you a reprieve.' And sure enough, boss, the first thing this morning the jailer call me to the bars and bring me the good

A Good Prisoner. "I can say one thing for Daniels," said one of the jailers, "he has given us about as little trouble as any prisoner we ever had in this building. "I have, however," he continued, "placed the matter in the hands of the police authorities and by this time tomorrow something sensational may develop."

There Is Other Testimony. "Why was none of this testimony adduced at the trial?" "Simply because I did not have time to find the witnesses. It was a charity case, and, while I did the best I could under the circumstances, yet I had neither the time nor the money to properly prepare for the defense. I was assigned to defend Daniels, and the trial was gone into at once. I did not know what a case the state had against him, otherwise I would have sought some delay. As the state developed its case I could easily perceive that the defendant must inevitably be convicted. The evidence was all against him. It was crushing. I never knew a more one-sided case. The jury could not do otherwise than find a verdict of guilty under the circumstances. I candidly admit that the evidence justified such a verdict. That is why at the time I refrained from moving for a new trial.

I had no ground for asking it, and the court would certainly have refused it. Now, however, that such important testimony has come court and get another trial." Cases Like This. Another lawyer, hearing this conversation, said: "The books report many curious cases such as this one. The fact that a defendant is tried and convicted and sentenced to be tried and convicted and sentenced to be hanged is no certain proof of his guilt. Sometimes it happens that a man is easily convicted, and that an overwhelming volume of evidence bears him down, and yet this same man is subsequently found to be innocent. This thing of newly discovered evidence is one of the safeguards the law throws around a prisoner. The theory of the law is that it is better every case should be carried up to the supreme court, so that the

The general council will meet in regular session next Monday.

And applications for liquor and beer licenses will be filed in wholesale quantities.

The current quarter expires on the last day of December. That falls on Friday, and the first meeting of the general council in January will not take place until four days after the expiration of the present licenses.

On that account the liquor men will besiege the council next Monday. The law now requires an applicant for a whisky or beer license to give notice to the public through the newspapers five days before the council meets. In the notice the applicant must give the proposed location of his saloon. By a custom, which has almost became the written law, a petition when presented to the council is referred to the police committee. That committee takes the papers and, after investigating the petitions thoroughly, makes a report at th next meeting.

After Monday next the council will meet but once more this year—the third Monday, in December, when the police committee will submit its report. All petitions which do not go in until the third Monday will not be reported upon until the first Monday in January.

These are the applicants who will be closed from the last day of December until the first Monday in January.

THE CONSTITUTION is now publishing a column of notices to the public signed by the applicants who will next Monday ask the general council to permit them to deal in liquor and beer. The majority of these petitions are for renewals, but a few are from parties who will open new places if their petitions are granted.

The Committees at Work The Committees at Work.

The various standing committees of the general council are now at work on their annual reports, which will be submitted just before the council of 1891 adjourns sine die. Some of the reports will prove most interesting to the public. The amount of work required to perfect every one of the reports is much greater than is generally supposed and takes a good month's work.

The are being rapidly cut down for buildi process, and to open up new lands for cultiva-tion, and it is but a question of time before they shall have entirely disappeared. To ob-viate this calamity, the Georgia lawmakers appointed Arbor Day, for the school children and others who felt so inclined, to plant trees and others who felt so inclined, to plant trees to perpetuate our forestry.

A large number of the public schools of the state took advantage of the legal holiday and observed the day. It was not observed by the public schools of Atlanta. The friends and patrons of the schools, where the day was observed, were invited to be present.

The exercises begin in the schoolroom and end at the tree planted by the school.

The exercises begin in the schoolroom consist of: Reading from the scriptures by the teacher. Invocation—To be recited in concert. Song—"America."

Reading of the law on Arbor Day. Also, reading of letters in reference to the day.

Recitations by the pupils from Bryant, Irving, Emerson, Wordsworth, Lowell and others.

Reading—To be chosen by the teacher.

Declamation.

Address—By the teacher or some official.

Voting for the tree or flower which shall be the emblem of the year.

This concludes the services in the school.

Georgia. AN INTERESTING MARRIAGE AT NEWNAN.

A Musical Event of the Near Future Gossip and News About People

Invitations have been issued by Mayor and Mrs. Hemphill to a benefit concert for Miss Louise Prather. The entertainment will occur on Tuesday evening, and will be one of the most choice and elegant musical affairs ever given in Atlanta. Among those who will assist Miss Prather are the following gifted artists: Miss Ella Powell. Mrs. Eva Cuckler Daniel, Mrs. I. W. Mayer, Mr. Harold G. Simpson and Mr. William Owens. These names alone insure a delightful evening. Miss Prather is an unusually gifted violinist. She has a delightfully cultivated soprano voice of finest tone and exquisite sympathy.

Mayor and Mrs. Hemphill always entertain with charming grace and cordiality, and they are strong factors in every part of the city's social and artistic progress. Their handsome home on this artistic progress. Their handsome nome to accession will be thrown open to that part of Atlanta social life which has a taste for the highest musical art, and all who attend the affair are sure of an evening of flawless harmonious delight.

Miss Mamie Hatcher, who has been the guest of Miss Mamie Hatcher, who has been the guest of Miss Hattle Snook for some weeks, left for her home in Macon yesterday to the regret of innumerable admirers who have made her stay here one continual ovation. Miss Hatcher is a very charming girl. She has a poise and bearing of remarkable dignity and grace for any woman, and especially for a girl in her first season. She looked particularly lovely at the tea given by Mrs. Henry Powers on Thursday evening. Her figure is as slender and as perfectly rounded as the female ideals of modern French art, and the princess gown of pale blue cloth, with its finishing of dull green velvet, showed every exquisite outline to perfection.

IS HUNGRY TO TRADE

Not only on queenly Dolls, but thousands of useful and artistic articles found in our establishment for decorative purposes and substantial home service, stocks of the following lines will be closed out as fast as possible, not to make room, but to discontinue them: Tinware, soaps, perfumery, Toys of all sorts, and art goods, among which are many worthy, historical and beautiful pictures.

Keen buyers, think of your interest! Buy now! We will make prices to fit you, as these goods have got to leave. A big line of Papateries, Albums, etc., at amusing prices.

Get our prices, and just for fun compare with those of our sleepy-headed, would-be imitators and copyists. Their whole endeavor in trade is to cut some staple article away below cost, and make it up on other goods twenty times over, and when you order their "baits" they are "Out of them," "Just sold out." By lucky accident we got a tremendous quantity of gift curs and saucers, full size and charming designs in decoration and wording, which we offer to our trade for 11 cents complete. They are 25 per cent below manufacturer's cost.

AN INTERESTING MARRIAGE AT NEWNAN.

Georgia.

A Musical Event of the Near Future. Gossip and News About People You Know.

Invitations have been issued by Mayor and Mrs. Hemphill to a benefit concert for Miss Louise Prather. The entertainment will occur on Tues-Pratier. The entertainment will be one of the most choice and elegant musical affairs ever given in Atlanta. Among those who will assist Miss Prather are the following gifted artists: Miss Ella Powell. Mrs. Eva Cuckler Daniel, Mrs. I. W. Mayer, Mr. Harold G. Simpson and Mr. William Owens. These names alone insure a delightful evening. Miss Prather is an unus-ually gifted violinist. She has a delightfully cultivated soprano voice of finest tone and ex-

Mayor and Mrs. Hemphill always entertain with charming grace and cordinaity, and they are strong factors in every part of the city's social and artistic progress. Their handsome home on this occasion will be thrown open to that part of Atlanta social life which has a taste for the highest musical art, and all who attend the affair are sure of an evening of flawless harmonious delight.

Miss Mamie Hatcher, who has been the guest of Miss Hattle Snook for some weeks, left for her home in Macon yesterday to the regret of innumerable admirers who have made her stay innumerable admirers who have made her stay here one continual ovation. Miss Hatcher is a very charming girl. She has a poise and bearing of remarkable dignity and grace for any woman, and especially for a girl in her first season. She looked particularly lovely at the tea given by Mrs. Henry Powers on Thursday evening. Her figure is as slender and as perfectly rounded as the female ideals of modern Frenchart, and the princess gown of pale blue cloth, with its finishing of du.1 green velvet, showed every exquisite outline to perfection.

The Baptist church at Newnan was, on Wednesday morning last, the scene of one of the most brilliant marriages ever solemnized in that place, the contracting parties being Captain Paul S. Willcoxon and Miss Laura Daniel.

The space within the chancel was beautifully decorated with flowers, and the other decorations was recognitive appropriate and attractive.

were equally appropriate and attractive.

Mrs. A. J. Smith presided at the organ, and under her graceful and skillful manipulations the instrument yielded its sweetest notes. At a few minutes past 10 o'clock the thrilling strains of the "Wedding March" broke the stillness which pervaded the church, as a slight commotion in the westibule betokened the approach of the wedding party. The order of march from the entrance to the alter was as follows: Proceeding down the main asise came Mr.
L. W. Smith with Miss Katie Sue Daniel, sister of the bride, followed by Mr. E. M. Cole with Miss Beelah Arnold, and Mr. M. C. Farmer with Miss Mollie Arnold. Following close behind the last-named couple came the bride, leaning on the arm of her first bridesmaid, Miss Annie Powell. The groom came down the right alsle, accompanied by his best friend, Colonel W. C. Wright, and joined the bride at the altar, the attendants taking posi-tions on either side. At this juncture Rev. J. B. S. Dayls arose and, confronting the candidates for matrimony, pronounced the beautiful and im-pressive ceremony which made the couple man

Messrs. Irwin Walker and Mike Powell acted as Carriages were in waiting at the door, and at the conclusion of the ceremony the party repaired at once to the Savannah and Western depot, where, at 10:40 o'clock, Captain Willcoxon and bride took the train for Chattanooga, in which Captain Willcoxon was residence.

Captain Willcoxon was reared and grew to man-hood in Newnan, and his popularity there is un-bounded. His ability and success as a lawyer gave him an enviable prominence at the bar—such as is seldom achieved by so young a member of the profession—while his popularity as a citizen has been demonstrated frequently, and in a most gratifying manner.

The bride is a lady of rare personal charms, combining many lovable traits of character, and has long been a social favorite in Newnan and through the state. That she will adorn the society which will be opened to receive her in her nev home, goes without saying.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Lyon celebrated their silver wedding anniversary last night at their home, corner Wheat street and Courtland avenue, by having the relatives of both present to enjoy the evening. Mrs. Lyon is the daughter of the late Judge Clark Howell, and her marriage to Mr. Lyon took place twenty-five years ago at his hos pitable home at Howell's mill, on Peachtree creek, near Atlanta. The bride and groom of a quarter of a century were warmly congratulated last evening and those present heartily enjoyed their

A quiet but happy wedding occurred Thursday evening at the residence of N. E. Waldrop, on Luckie street. The contracting parties were Miss Lizzie Bowland, a niece of Mrs. Waldrop. and Mr. Frank C. Robertson, a well-known railroad man. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Cleveland and was wit-nessed by a few intimate friends of the contracting parties only.

Miss Mary Jackson, one of the most accomplished young ladies of Athens, Tenn., is in the city visiting her cousin, Miss Demauer, No. 92 Jones avenue.

Mrs. C. W. Jones, of Chattanooga, formerly Miss Ella Moore, of Atlanta, is visiting her mother, Mrs. S. M. Moore, on Butler street.

Miss Carrie Nelson has gone to Rome to visit

The Nursing Sisterhood held a full meeting yesterday afternoon at St. Luke's cathedral. The society was addressed by Dr. Thomas, who made a practical lecture on the science of poisons and a practical fecture on the science of poisons and their antidotes.

This society is rapidly approaching the end planned by its founders and gives promise of accomplishing much good for the sick poor of Atlanta.

Invitations are out for a 6 o'clock dining by the Atlanta members of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon on December 10th. It will be complimentary to Captain Max Adams, of the Egyptian army, on the eve of his departure from Atlanta, and it is likely there will be a hundred Sigma Alpha Epsilons in attendance. Open invitations are also extended to all members of the fraternity in Atlanta who may not be known to the alumnus chapter here.

Dr. and Mrs. Clein C. Green have returned to the city from their wedding tour, and are at home to their friends, at 359 Whitehall street.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Willie S. Pratt to Mr. B. Hough Scott, of Atlanta, comes from Decatur. Miss Pratt is the second daughter of Mr. Charles Pratt. She is undoubtedly the most beautiful of all Decatur's fair daughters. She is tall and slender, with fine figure, brown eyes and the loveliest of golden hair. The wedding will be the first celebrated in the new Presbyterian church at Decatur, and will occur about the last of February or the first of March.

Mrs. Bella Footman, who has been very ill at ber home in Decatur, is now better and will leave for Savannah today. She will remain all the Buchanan, Ga., December 4.—[Special.]—Robert Wolsoncroft, the youth who attempted to assault a young lady here several days ago, was released this afternoon. The lady's friends agreed to withdraw the charges against Wolsoncroft provided his father would whip him. So this afternoon the boy was released from jail and his father took him out of town and gave him a good whipping and sent him home. Dr. Cobb, C. W. Golden and others witnessed the whipping.

AT THE Y. M. C. A. Notes of Interest About the Association and the Building

Mr. C. K. Ober, Georgia's state has just returned from an extended trip east and south in the interest of the association. He reports the branch at Wayeross much benefited by the recent meeting there.

The Whitney-Mackridge Concert Company will give the second entertainment of the star course which is being given by the Young Men's Christian Association. This will be held on December 21st. This company is said to be a combination of artists of order. Mr. Whitney is one of the representative tenor singers in the United States. Miss Batsford, the violin virtuoso, States. Miss Batsford, the violin virtuoso, spent five years in musical studies in Paris, and is said to be the greatest lady violinist known. Mr. Arthur Beresford has a grand baritone voice which is highly cultivated, and Miss Hattie Mackridge, the prima dorina, is receiving the highest compliments all along this tour for her exquisite singing. A season ticket for this course can be had from the secretary at greatly reduced rates.

The two associations which together were established about six weeks ago, at Professor Neal's academy and the technological school, now numoer over forty members each and are succeeding finely.

THE DEMOREST MEDAL CONTEST.

The Next One in Atlanta Will Be Held Within a Month.

Mrs. Sexton, president of the West Side Woman's Christian Temperance Union is preparing a Demorest medal declamatory contest which will be held within a month at DeGive's opera house or Prohibition hall.

Nearly a dozen boys and girls, ranging from tweive to eighteen years old, will take part in this contest, and are now engaged busily in this contest, and are now engaged busily in training.

This contest was founded by the munificence of Mr. Demorest, the pattern man, and is a world-wide institution. The contests are held under the auspices of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, and temperance declamations are delivered by young people for handsome gold, silver and diamond prizes which are furnished by the founder.

It is said that over forty thousand dollars has been expended in this way already, and the contests are increasing in number and frequency each year.

A NEW MAP OF ATLANTA.

It Is Being Prepared at the Office of the City Gazetteer.

Mr. H. G. Saunders is now working on a very handsome and accurate map of the city of Atlanta, which will fill a long-felt want. It will be about five feet square, arranged on a scale of 400 feet to the inch, and will include all territory from the exposition grounds on

GEORGIA'S EDITORS

Resolve to Have a State Exhibit at the World's Fair.

THEY WILL RAISE $100,000 FOR IT.

The Plan Embraces a General Subscription, from Which No Donation Will Be Excluded.

Macon, Ga., December 4.—[Special.]—Georgia's editors were here in force today to take actoin looking to the representation of Georgia at the world's fair, the general assembly having failed to make an appropriation.

Governor Northen came down last night in the editors' special car from Atlanta.

The attendance is representative in the highest sense. As the newspaper men arrived they were met by committees and escorted to the hotels.

The convention met at 11:30 o'clock at the Academy of Music. Besides the editors there was quite a large attendance of citizens. Mayor Price presided and announced the order of the programme and introduced the speakers, Governor Northen, officers, committeemen and others occupying seats on the platform. An address of welcome in behalf of the city was delivered by City Attorney R, W. Patterson and an address of welcome in behalf of the local press was made by Editor A. A. Allen, of The Telegraph.

Henry Horne, of the Macon board of trade, also spoke.

Henry Horne, of the Macon board of trade, also spoke.

A beautiful and very appropriate response in behalf of the visiting editors was made by Colonel H. W. Newman, of Canton.

Editor Barker nominated Governor Northen for permanent chairman, and the governor was elected unanimously. Editor Barker was chosen secretary, with William M. Kersh, Alf Herrington, John T. Boifeuillet and J. R. Kennedy assistants.

Messrs. Jemison, Peeples and Ryckman were made a committee on business.

A communication was read from Mrs. W. H. Felton, lady manager of the world's Columbian commission of Georgia.

At 1 o'clock a recess was taken for dinner,

A Plan Adopted.

At 1 o'clock a recess was taken for dinner,

A Plan Adopted.

The convention met this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The following plan was adopted to proceed to raise a fund of $100,000 to have a state exhibit at the world's fair:

It was decided to appoint an executive committee of one from each congressional district, and one person from every city of 3,000 persons in the state. The executive committee is to also consist of eleven honorary vice presidents, who shall be the congressmen in the several districts. The governor of the state is to be the honorary president. The executive committee shall appoint one director in each county who shall form a board of county directors. Each board shall have a treasurer and secretary, the treasurer to report all funds collected to the general treasurer of the executive committee, who shall be a bonded officer. Macon will be the headquarters of the committee. The first meeting will be held December 15th. The executive committee will decide how much per capita assessment to make in order to raise the fund and can devise any other plan to raise it.

The members of each congressional district present at the convention today met and selected the gentleman who is to represent their district on the executive committee.

The following were named: First district, W. W. Gordon; second, John Triplett; third, W. H. Felton; fourth, John B. Gorman; fifth, E. P. Howell; sixth, Dan G. Hughes; seventh, Seaborn Wright; eighth, James A. Benson; ninth, Frank W. Hall; tenth, Pat Walsh; eleventh, W. W. Ashburn.

The following resolutions, introduced by S. Paul Brown, of the Sunday Critique, Atlanta, were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, it has come to the knowledge of this convention that a movement has been set on foot to advertise the state of Georgia through the medium of a traveling exposition car, to be stocked with choice selections of Georgia products, which shall travel through the states, visit fairs and expositions and serve as a permanent advertisement for and avant courier of Georgia's exhibit at the world's fair; and,

Whereas, Such a plan if carried out will be very effective in advancing the state's interests by creditably displaying her many resources, attractions and advantages to capitalists, tourists and prospective settlers, therefore be it.

Resolved, That as a convention of newspaper men, thoroughly familiar with the various methods of advertising, we heartily endorse this plan as calculated to be of immense benefit to the state, and we commend it to the people as such.

A committee was appointed to draft resolutions of thanks to the city of Macon and the railroads for their hospitality and courtesies. The convention adjourned at 5 o'clock. Tonight a banquet was served at the Hotel Lanier to the editors. The menu was superb. Numerous teasts were responded to. The convention, with all of its accompaniments, was a great success and very enjoyable.

MANY CANDIDATES OFFER. Houston County Should Get a Good

Treasurer.

FORT VALLEY, Ga., December 4.—[Special.]
The death of Houston county's treasurer, Major William Brunson, last Sunday leaves that office vacant. But, as usual, there is an ample number of candidates announced to make the election an exciting one. Those already announced are *Messrs. F. Hauser, C. E. Gilbert and F. S. Cater, of Perry; Mr.
Chester Pierce, of Henderson, and Mr. A. D.
Skellie, cashier of the Exchange bank of this place. In all probability others will announce in a few days.

As things now stand, Mr. A. D. Skellie is the decided favorite, as he will get the solid vote of Fort Valley and the entire district, while the vote in Perry and the rest of the county will be greatly divided.

Mr. Skellie's friends to a man are working for him. All of the other candidates are well qualified gentlemen, but the universal opinion is they will need more votes than they can get on the day of election to secure the plum. Treasurer.

DAVE THOMAS CONVICTED. A Verdict of Manslaughter for Killing His

Forsyth, Ga., December 4.—[Special.]—
The jury in the trial of Dave Thomas for shooting his cousin, Lizzie Gossett, brought in today at noon, a verdict of guilty of manslaugher. This verdict was a surprise, as nearly every one expected a mistrial. Thomas's attorneys will at once make a motion for a new trial. This is the third case of murder tried at this term, and there are four more yet to be tried.

"Why?"

Deputy Jailer Reid States That He Was Discharged Without Cause. "I am going back into the railroad busi-ness," said Assistant Jailer Reid to a Constr-

"Because I have been relieved of duty. have been discharged without cause. I was simply notified that I was no longer wanted," Reid answered. "Can't you find out wby you were dis-charged?"

"I have an idea about it. The United States prisoners have been allowed to go out and buy whisky by some of the officers and they charge me with it, I guess. I intend go-ing before District Attorney Darnell and telling what I know. I don't suppose you newspaper reporters will grieve much, for I never would tell any of you the news."

The Sheriff's Side. "Why did you discharge Reid?" Sheriff Morrow was asked.

"For cause," was the brief reply. "What cause?"

"That's not a public matter. I had good and sufficient reasons for discharging him, but I do not feel called upon to state them. I manage the affairs connected with the jail to the best of my ability, without fear or favor, and I do not allow any one to dictate to me how I shall conduct my business. When I get to the point where I am controlled by the whims and wishes of any man or set of men, then I'll step down and out and let some one else take my place."

"Reid makes charges against some of the jail officials. Are they true?" "They have no foundation; are simply the mplaints of a discharged employe."

complaints of a discharged employe."

It is said by those who are in a position to know that it was brought to Sheriff Morrow's attention that Reid had offered to sell information to a newspaper reporter who went to him for news, and this certainly had something to do with his discharge.

One of the deputy sheriffs said last evening to The Constitution: "It was reported that Reid offered to sell news, and that was certainly sufficient to cause his discharge. Any man who would' sell news, could not be trusted to guard prisoners or conduct the jail business. The reports about whisky being sold to the United States prisoners is absolutely false. If there was any sold Reid must have sold it."

Oglethorpe Hotel to Be Reopened-A Political Meeting.

cal Meeting.

Brunswick, Ga., December 3.—[Special.]—
Warren Leland, of Chicago, of hotel fame, has leased the Oglethorpe hotel, and is now in the city, the guest of M. Ullman, arranging to reopen the Oglethorpe on January 1st.

An informal meeting of twenty-four citizens was held tonight, Alonzo Hughes, chairman, to sound the people on the congressional candidate for this district. Twenty-three out of the number voted for W. G. Brantly, Brunswick's circuit solicitor, and the one voting against him may change his vote make it unanimous. Brantly may be a candidate.

and Loan Association.

The stockholders of the Piedmont Building and Loan Association held their annual meeting last evening at the law office of Alexander & Lambdin. The reports of the secretary and treasurer showed the business of the association to be in a very prosperous condition and the officers were highly complimented by the stockholders on their successful management of the affairs of the association during the past year. The old officers were unanimously re-elected, namely: Dr. J. C. Avary, president; John Neal, vice president and treasurer; W. E. Hanye, secretary; W. W. Lambdin, attorney, and J. A. Clayton, F. Knox, E. T. Hunnicutt, C. H. Kelley and C. H. McHan, directors. It is claimed that no association in the city is better conducted or is making better and surer profits than the Piedmont.

THE GELW THEORY

IS THE THEORY. THAT ALL ENDEMIC, EPIDEMIC, AND CONTAGIOUS DISEASES, are produced by minute infecting germs or microbes, peculiar to each disease, which enter the system as mentioned in our Treatise, page 12, under the heading "WHAT IS BLOOD POISON?" Recent experiments show this to be a fact, and that the true way to rid the system of disease is to force out these microbes or germs through the pores of the skin, does this in the most effectual manner, by changing the character of the blood, so that the poisonous germs cannot exist in it; they are therefore forced out. S. S. S. not nolly forces out the microbes, but also the poison—both coming out through the pores of the skin; or if there should be a sore or ulcer the poison comes out through it. S. S. S. is entirely vegetable, is absolutely harmless, and builds up the general health, instead of depleting, as is the case with mercury and potash mixtures. and potash mixtures

THE NEW YORK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, December 4.—The stock market lost little or none of its listlessness and lack of feature today, and duliness was still the most prominent oharacteristic of the trading, while in the great majority of stocks only slight changes were recorded from the opening to the close. In a few stocks, however, the bears were still active and aggressive, but the demonstration made against these shares was believed to be for the most part to cover the buying of other stocks for short account. Gould stocks, and especially Missourl Pacific, were chosen to bear the brunt of the attack during the forenoon, and the latter fell away 1½, per cent, while the other Goulds, including Union Pacific, yielded fractions only, and the general list scarcely felt the force of the demonstration. Northern Pacific preferred, however, showed considerable heavicific, yielded fractions only, and the general list scarcely felt the force of the demonstration. Northern Pacific preferred, however, showed considerable heaviness, accompanied by a moderate degree of activity. The general market showed no disposition to yield further, and before the close of the first hour of business there was a full and complete rally in everything but Missouri Pacific, while many of the leading shares, among them Grangers, under the new buying for western secount, were conspicuous for the advances satablished. It was not until the last hour that the bears again became aggressive, and this time they coupled Lackawanna with Missouri Pacific, and forced both off to the lowest prices seen for the day. The others, as usual, yielded only slightly, but the pressure was not relieved, and the final dealings were given a heavy tone, though evidences of covering were not wanting in the last few minutes' business. The close was heavy and quiet at or near the lowest prices offthe day for most stocks. Both Lackawanna and Missouri Pacific showed losses of 1½ per cent, and some others large fractions, but the great majority of the list is only slightly changed from last night. Sales of listed stocks, 166,000 shares; unlisted, 5,000.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular. NEW YORK, December 4—[Special.]—As the crop movement continues to be the dominating influence in action we have been at some trouble to work out the comparison between the movement on the 1st and 31st of December in previous years and the total produc-tion. The figures are as follows:

production. Beyond this generalization it seems that, up to January ist, receipts are valueless as an indication of the production. The two erops that can be justify called "mammeth" in relation to the preceding series of years—namely, those of 1885-83 and 1890-91, moved more slowly than any others, while of the crops of 1885-9, 1887-8 and 1883-1 about 75 per cent had in every instance come into sight by January 1st, and in 1854 nearly 80 per cent of the crop was marketed by the close of the year. There is, therefore a reasonable possibility that the present crop may yet fall below 7,650,000 bales. This view of the case was apparently not without consideration in Liverpool today, and that market has recovered yesterday's deciline, closing very steady and inducing an extreme improvement of some 5.66 points here, part of which, however had been lost by 2 o'clock under the influence of the interior movement and another day of large port receipts. Private cables from Liverpool advise a much better business in Manchester and generally a more confident feeling. The low prices continue to attract the attention of a constantly widening circle, and this buying promises to support the market for some time. After 2 o'clock the market and generally a more confident feeling. The low prices continue to attract the attention of a constantly widening circle, and this buying promises to support the market for some time. After 2 o'clock the market was easy, most of the improvement being lost and the close steady about 2 points over last evening. The port movement will probably be about 27,000 bales for the week, and the interior movement about 16,000 bales less than last year. These figures are about what was expected, and are not calculated to disturb the existing status pending the developments of next week. The southern telegraph service has again been prostrate today.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions. CHICAGO, December 4.—Wheat opened firm and a shade higher on firmer cables, advanced a small fraction more, weakened on short selling and sold off %c more, rallied slightly on the shorts covering for profits, fluctuated within a range of %@%c, and closed weak at the bottom.

Corn opened quiet, within a narrow range, except December, which started at a sharp advance on account of the poor grading of receipts, higher cables and fears of anether squeeze, broke on free selling by the bull crowd, and closed at the bottom.

Outs opened quiet and firm, and closed at a slight advance.

The removal of the prohibition on American pork by Austria had no effect on the prices of bog products, as it is too remote in its effect. But the heavy decrease in the receipts of hogs caused early strength. The sales by the longs caused a recession later, but this was recovered before the close.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter. By Private Wire to Youngblood & Haas.

orders were amplied, the market gradually declined, closing at the lowest point of the day, which was about ½c lower than yesterday. The report that Mexico would remove the import duty on wheat, and a rather firmer feeling in the lower grades, were some of the elements of strength, but the liberal receipts and the lack of export orders overbalanced everything. The amount put affont to the United Kingdom and the continent for the past month is so large that importers may be a little slow with their orders until after the holidays, and when they cannot see quite so much coming toward them.

The light receipts of No. 2 corn gave the shorts in seller the month a little scare, causing a lively trade the fore part of the session. Holders, however, seemed about as anxious to realize as the shorts were to cover. The market gradually declined, closing about 1½c under the highest figures. Guessing at the future price of December corn is to guess at what the weather will be and what the railroads can do. Should the weather be dry and frosty, so as to increase the amount of the contract grade, and the railroads be able to handle it; the supply will be fully equal to the demand at about 45c. On the other hand, should the weather be damp and unfavorable to grading, and the roads slow about moving, the receipts may be very light, and short sellers may have trouble in realizing profits.

There seems to be new life in the grovision pit, and profits.

There seems to be new life in the provision pit, and all kinds of hog product obtained a liberal advance. It is now reported that Austria has removed the duty. There is a feeling among traders that meas pork for January delivery has been oversold. The packing of November pork being so light, conservative dealers keep shy of the short side in that option.

A Fast Young Man That Carried a The Police Officers Say He Was Not, Pistol.

THE JUDGE ENFORCES THE LAW!

An Exciting Scene in the Criminal Court. A Mother's Indignation-Other Court Gossip Gathered.

Judge Westmoreland is down on pistol

Yesterday he intimated his determination to deal vigorously with those who are convicted in his court of carrying concealed weapons. A young white man named Jack Mann was

The testimony showed that the defendant was in a disreputable house in company with a party of fast young men, all of whom were more or less under the influence of liquor. He was arrested while flourishing an unloaded

Mr. Eugene M. Mitchell defended him ably, and made an appeal to the jury in his behalf, but the jury returned a verdict of guilty in a

The defendant's mother was present during the trial, and watched the proceedings with deep concern. Evidently her wayward boy was very dear to her. She was almost crushed when the clerk read the verdict, and could not repress her agitation.

"Before passing sentence upon your son," said Judge Westmoreland, addressing the prisoner's mother, "I will allow you to make a statement if you wish."

The invitation was accepted with avidity. In an instant Mrs. Mann was upon her feet and addressing the court.

Her manner was excited and her language exceedingly forcible. She began by denouncing the witnesses who had sworn against her son, and then pald her respects to the court and jury. Her denunciation of the latter became so vehement that Judge Westmoreland was constrained to check the lady's speech.
"You cannot proceed in this way. You must sit down, madame," the court spoke in dignified and snave tones. This mild rebuke did not check the mother's flow of angry words, and the judge was compelled to speak in a positive and severe

The lady reluctantly took her seat, her face denoting the indignation which her tongue was not permitted to express.

The young man stood up to receive sentence.
Judge Westmoreland made some pointed remarks touching the evil practice of boys and men going armed with concealed pistols. He said that had young Mann's weapon been loaded at the time he was arrested that he might now be in another court charged with

It was a touching spectacle—the fond mother parting from her wild and disobedient son, who, unless his friends pay the fine for him, will be chained with vicious criminals for twelve long months.

Westmoreland sentenced Ed Mitchell, who had been convicted of larceny from the house, to three months in the chaingang. Will Dennis, who was convicted of the same crime, was sentenced to pay $50 or go to the chaingang for six months.

The court then adjourned till December 12th.

An Unusual Suit. Mr. M. A. Bell, attorney for Julia Mothershead, went before Judge Marshall J. Clarke yesterday morning with a petition for an injunction and restraining order directed against L. DeGive, John Stephens, A. M. Reinhardt, W. A. Osborn and L. B. Nelson. In the petition it is alleged that these respondents made an affidavit June 17, 1887, that they were coan affidavit June 17, 1887, that they were co-owners of a parcel of land near Atlanta, con-sisting of ten acres. The petitioner held pos-session of this land as tenant at sufferance. They demanded that she should vacate the premises, which she refused to do; that at the time she owed them $155 for rent and they swore out a dispossessory warrant, and the sheriff evicted her from the land. The peti-tioner further avers that the respondents made a deed to W. M. Pendleton the lat of made a deed to W. M. Pendleton the 1st of December, 1886, for $2,801, and that said deed was not recorded till 1889.

She alleges that she planted trees, cultivated plants, beautified and improved the place at her own expense, with the expectation of retaining possession of it; that the parties named in the petition, through their agent, have begun to tear down the dwelling house, and to cut down the trees. The petitioner seeks redress and asks the court to grant an injunction preventing the defendants from proceeding further with their work of demolition.

A Charter Asked For Messrs. Charles E. McCandless, R. A. Williams and J. H. Lattimer yesterday filed a petition for the charter of "The McCandless Rupture Company." The capital stock is $2,000, the company having the privilege to increase it to $10,000. The charter is to run twenty years. The principal office is to be in Atlanta.

weeks and modify the plans, if any better can be suggested.

An old practitioner, talking about this yesterday, said: "As soon as the building was completed I said it was a failure. I knew it would not do. Why, it's the worst constructed courthouse I ever saw for the money. Yet there is plenty of room if the room was only distributed properly.

"The superior courtroom is certainly too large, and the ordinary's offices take up entirely too much space. At the time the building was erected, Judge Hillyer was superior court judge and the Hon. Dan Pittman was ordinary. These two estimable gentlemen were looking at the present; they did not foresee the growth of Atlanta and consequent increase of court business. I think Atlanta needs nothing so badly as a new county courthouse, and we will have one in a few years."

That Is Where the Detectives Think the Bigamist Has Gone-The Rumors That Were Afloat Yesterday.

That was the language of Mrs. Beerman No. 1, at the home of Mr. Weinberg, on Decatur street.

"Certainly he was not," chimed in Mr. Weinberg, "I know Beerman too well for that. He is right now in the far west, either Washington or Oregon. He has friends and relatives in both states, and he is with some of "That decoy telegram that was reported

One of the afternoon papers yesterday published a double-leaded story to the effect that Raphael Beerman, who is badly wanted for bigamy, spent Thursday in Atlanta.

The story received very little, if any, credence, and a Constitution representative made a thorough investigation of the matter to ascertain upon what foundation the report was Mrs. Gillam, who lives at the corner of Alexander and Marietta streets, and with whom Beerman once boarded, claimed that he was at her house Wednesday. This the detectives and police do not believe, and think it is a story concocted to throw them off another clue that bids fair to lead to his detection and capture. They say that from the very beginning Mrs. Gillam has done her utmost to throw every possible obstacle in the way of his cap-After Beerman left the detective found his trunks at Mrs. Gillam's, and she promised to notify them, when and where she shipped the trunks. This she did not do and when the detective demanded to know to where she shipped them she refused to tell. This and other conduct leads Chief Connolly and Chief of Detectives Couch to discredit her Beerman has been located, and is now in Portland, Oregon, if not under arrest under the close watch of the detectives. The probability is that he will be arrested and brought back to Atlanta within a few days. And Everything Quiet in His Office-The Building and Loan Association Law Not Complied With.

Building and loan associations have beco almost as numerous as corner groceries in Georgia.

who have not been asked to take stock in these concerns, by the eloquent agents representing

Their number has multiplied, and they have flourished like the green bay tree. Hundreds of men are employed in Georgia, soliciting investment in the stock of these companies, which fpromise to the poor workingman a home of his own, at once, to be paid for in monthly installments.

There may be a less number of these business institutions in this state after this year.

The last legislature passed a law, which will result in lessening the number of these cor-porations. This law requires all foreign building and loan associations doing business in the state to deposit with the state treasurer, or some trust company, 75 per cent of its total assets. They are further required to file with secretary of state a duly authenticated copy of the charters, also a copy of the resolution by the board to the effect that if legal proceedings in any way affecting the association be served on the secretary of state, it shall be as effective as if served on the com-

That's the law on the subject. There are over two hundred of these building and loan associations in Georgia that will come under this law. They are not complying with the new law very fast, only one company having done so thus far.

It is quite likely that a number will not comply with the law at all, and thus forfeit comply with the law at all, and thus forfeit their charters.

It's a question whether the legislature in-tends to have less of these associations, or to protect investors by this law.

A Change Needed. In speaking of the aid received from the national government by the militia, Lieuten-Satterlee read an extract from the repor of the secretary of war upon the present ap-

From reading the extract it will be seen that a change is needed, as recommended. It reads:

The present method of allotment of the annual appropriation of $400,000 for arming and equipping the militia, which is prescribed by the act of ping the militia, which is prescribed by the act of Hebrusty 12, 1887, (24 states, 401) and which gives to each state an amount proportionate to its congressional representation is not such as to produce the best results. The aid given different states is very disproportionate. The amount of government aid received by some states is not more than half that received by hothers that maintain double the number of men in their national guard. There is no inducement for the maintenance of a greater number of militia than is actually required by the law, but rather the reverse if economy be consulted.

by the law, but rather the reverse it could be consulted.

The allotment as now made is not based upon what the states do in return for the appropriation, but what they ought to do. It would be better to help those who help themselves. If the appropriation, or even half of it, was distributed upon the basis of the effective force of the national guard maintained by the several states, it would better accomplish its purpose of encouraging that organization. By the detail of officers and troops to the various annual encampments tail of officers and troops to the various annual encampments throughout the country, the war department has rendered the national guard of the several states such assistance as was in its power. The association of this force, necessarily the main dependence of the country in any great war, with the regular army is of great-advantage to both organizations. In this and every other way possible the federal government should co-operate with the states in the maintenance and education of the national guard.

SMALL FARMS IN GEORGIA.

Chatham County Will Make an Experiment in Colonization.

SAVANNAH, Ga., December 4.-[Special.]-A number of Russians will be located near Savannah on small truck farms. Fifty acres of ground have been offered for this purpose It is proposed to divide this land up into tracts of ten or more acres, and place a few families on it as an experiment. Cheap frame houses will be built and the families will be given supplies until they are established.

It is believed that even with such small At is believed that even with such small farms the Russians can support themselves. Many of those now flocking to this country were farmers at home and it is certainly preferable to place them in the country here than to bring them in competition with labor in the cities. It is not the intention to make an out and out gift of the farms. They will be turned over to the settlers with the condition that a over to the settlers with the condition that as soon as they are able they shall begin to pay something on the land, the value being placed at as low an amount as possible. A New and Elegant Hotel on Peachtree

One of the best and most convenient hotels in the city is the Ballard house. Its location is just opposite the governor's mansion. It has suites and single rooms. Every convenience. The choicest fare Wedding rapidly hday present at Maier & Ber-nie, 93 Whitentis in * TO RATIFY THE ELECTION.

Meeting of the Standing Committee Is Held and Ratification Papers Issued. A meeting of the standing committee of the diocese of Georgia was held yesterday at the Kimball house—the first meeting since the election of Bishop Nelson.

The meeting prepared the papers which must be submitted to the various bishops and standing committees for their consent before secration can be held.

A majority vote is necessary to authorize the installation of a new bishop. This, it is expected, will be obtained in plenty of time to hold the consecration at the date already named, January 29th. The ceremony will take place at St

Luke's cathedral. The Installation of a Bishop.

As the matter of installing a new bishop is of such rare occurrence it will be interesting to many to know just what is necessary after an election is had.

First, the standing committee of the diocese must prepare papers setting forth the facts of the election. These they submit to all the bishops and standing committees of the church for their consent, and before the consecration can be made a majority of these must vote favorably.

These legal arrangements are the requirements of the church.

The personal arrangements of the consecration, where, when and by whom, are determined in accordance with the preferences of the bishop eiect.

Three bishops must be present to lay on the hands at the consecration. The private arrangements, however, are made at the direction of the one being consecrated.
